A Prayer of Unknowing by Thomas Merton

My Lord God, I have no idea where I am going. I do not see the road ahead of me. I cannot know for certain where it will end. Nor do I really know myself, and the fact that I think I am following Your will does not mean that I am actually doing so. But I believe that the desire to please You does in fact please You. And I hope I have that desire in all that I am doing. I hope that I will never do anything apart from that desire. And I know that, if I do this, You will lead me by the right road, though I may know nothing about it. Therefore I will trust You always though I may seem to be lost and in the shadow of death. I will not fear, for You are ever with me, and You will never leave me to face my perils alone. Amen.

- Thomas Merton, Thoughts in Solitude, page 79, (suggested by Belinda T.)

E. L. Doctorow once said that "writing a novel is like driving a car at night. You can see only as far as your headlights, but you can make the whole trip that way." You don't have to see where you're going, you don't have to see your destination or everything you will pass along the way. You just have to see two or three feet ahead of you.

- This is right up there with the best advice about writing, or life, I have ever heard, (unknown)

HOW DID YOU DO THAT?

A drunk went to a police station wanting to speak with the burglar who had broken into his house the night before. "You'll get your chance in court," said the desk sergeant. "No, no, no!" said the man. "I want to know how he got into the house without waking my wife. I've been trying to do that for years!"

—BOB W. Green Valley Area, Jan 2012

OLDIE BUT GOODIE

A badly hungover husband sat at the breakfast table, his eyes half shut and his tongue feeling as though he had been licking a dusty rug.

Moodily toying with his food, he complained, "These eggs taste funny."
"Of course your eggs taste funny," snapped his spouse. "They're pancakes."

—ANONYMOUS, Aug 2014

"He's having trouble working the steps."
